Russia Expresses Worry at Contacts Of U.S. and China

By Bernard Gwertzman

MOSCOW, Aug. 10 (NYT).-The Soviet Union today expressed hope that American efforts to reach an understanding with China will not lead to any lessening of Washington's interest in solving long-standing problems with Moscow. The Ardoyne Struggle: Scorched-Earth Policy BELFAST, Aug. 10 (UPI).— The army sergeant-major held his rifle at arm's length and swept it in a slow arc past the four rows of 150 blazing houses in the Protestant Ardovne.

"It's a scorched-earth policy," he said. "It appears the Pro-testanst burned them down themselves to keep the Catholics from getting at them."

The sergeant-major stood in the shadows at Velsheda Park Street. A private crouched next to him at a brick wall, scanning the darkness at the Roman Catholic part of the street through his rifle sight.

"There was quite a bit of sniper fire there earlier." he said, looking at his watch. It was past midnight. "It's been quiet now for about two hours," he said.

A roof caved in and a blanket of sparks whooshed into the air. A row of about 40 houses, some gutted, some still burning, lined both sides of the street and the adjoining Farriugdon Gardens.

10 (Reuters).—UN Secretary-General U Thant seld today that the fate of Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, leader of East Pakistan's banned Awami League, was bound to have repercussions outside Pakistan.

But the secretary-general said that the sheikh's impending trial before a military court was "an extremely sensitive and delicate matter which falls within the competence of the judicial system of a member state."

The Pakistan government said in Rawalpindi yesterday that the sheikh, arrested when troops moved in to crush the rebellion in East Pakistan, would be tried by a special military court for 'waging war against Pakistan."

In a press statement Mr. Thant said he shared the feelings of many UN representatives "that any developments concerning the fate of Sheikh Mujibur Rahman will inevitably have repercussions outside the borders of Pakistan." He said the trial was "a matter of extraordinary interest and concern in many quarters, from a humanitarian as well as from Taking note of President Nixon's last press conference, in which Mr. Nixon warned against anticipating quick results from the Peking trip, Mr. Arbatov said that the outcome of the Chinese-American dipiomacy is by no means determined.

"Even people entirely welcoming this visit are aware that a meeting in itself, even at the highest level, will not automatically solve the problems at hand," he said. "Moreover, some American leaders are afraid of possible disappointments in the near future which, following great hopes, may become a political boom-

"Many questions connected with the planned Peking trip of the President, and even more with the future of American-Chinese relations and United States policy as a whole, remain without any clear answer.

Mr. Arbatov, who is a corresponding member of the Academy of Sciences and a member of the party Central Committee's Central Auditing Commission, said a central problem for the American administration remains the impact the Nixon trip will have on relations with the Soviet

Some Americans, he said, "come out with appeals to combine the efforts to improve relations with the People's Republic of China with no less vigorous efforts to improve Soviet-American relations and the international situation as a whole."

Any effort to use Chinese-American relations against Moscow will reveal the extreme political shortsightedness of its mas-

The Soviet Union, he said, for more than 20 years has urged establishment of normal relations between China and the United States and other countries, and "it must be regretted" that Washington took so long in its "recognition of realities."

But he said that American intentions for the moment are "ambiguous." Mr. Nixon has called his visit to Peking "a journey in the name of peace," Mr. Arbatov said, and "Washington wants to explain this action as one of the practical steps in the policy of changing over from an era of confrontation to an era of negotiation proclaimed a few years ago by the U.S. President."

Supporters Press Gen. Minh To Quit Election in Protest

By Peter A. Jay

SAIGON, Aug. 10 (WP) .- Pressure is mounting here for Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh, the only candidate to surmount legal obstacles and qualify to challenge President Nguyen Van Thieu, to withdraw from the race as a gesture of protest.

only by the general's with-drawal some of Gen. Minh's younger and more militant supporters are now arguing force-fully, can the Oct. 3 election be conclusively shown to be the pointless charade they say it has already become. There is no sign yet that Gen.

Minh is heeding the hotheads, and some solid indications that he is not. But the threat of withdrawal may well be the generai's strongest weapon, and be is keeping it very much on display.

However, while some of his men continue to sound the withdrawal theme, others are going busily about the task of organizing for the election.

With the silent backing of anti-war Buddhists of the An Quang Pagoda—next to Mr. Thieu'e government apparatus (and perhaps the Viet Cong) the best-organized political force in the country-Gen. Minh's men have set up a national group called the "People's Movement to Prevent a Fraudulent Election."

National Assemblyman Ho Ngoc Whuan, the secretary-general of the movement, said that it would provide poll-watchers on election day and, during the campaign, teach voters how to detect votestealing tactics. By leading a campaign to protest fraud and corruption it is generally believed in Saigon, Gen. Minh has everything to gain and nothing to lose. "If he withdraws," a Vietnamese journalist said, 'he has a reason. If he loses, he the same reason. And if he wins, fraud is forgotten."

Among those who have publicly urged Gen. Minh to withdraw is Ly Quf Chung, a national assemblyman and publisher who wrote in his newspaper yesterday that there is no hone of victory while Thieu-appointed province chiefs and mayors oversee the elections.

But a much more moderate voice has been that of the general'e young running mate, Ho Van Minh, the deputy speaker of the National Assembly—and inevitably picknamed Little Minh." "Little Minh said yesterday that the ticket would withdraw. only if it became apparent that the election was hopelessly rigged for Mr. Thieu-though he added that a poll is now being taken to see what the voters think. He said that the ultimate decision would be based on "the na-tional interest" and predicted that if the Minh-Minh ticket withdrew, "chaos" could result in South Vietnam. There have been many predictions that if Gen. Minh withdraws -or if he runs and loses-there will be angry demonstrations by his supporters, both in Saigon and in Buddhist centers like Da Nang and Hue. But with the election eight weeks away, there have been no visible signs of unrest.

Well-placed political sources, both in Gen. Minh's inner circle and among Mr. Thieu's advisers, say that if Gen. Minh withdraws at all it will not be until after the election of national assemblymen on Aug. 29.

Thieu Asking Execution of Drug Sellers

SAIGON, Aug. 10 (UPI).—President Nguyen Van Thieu announced today that he has asked the National Assembly under emergency procedures to establish the death penalty for organized drug pushers and smugglers.

The U.S. military command, meanwhile, announced plans to use special medical evacuation planes instead of civilian craft to fly treated drug users to the United States. The decision bolstered reports that addicted soldiers were smnggling drugs into Vietnam treatment centers. Spokesmen said some men thought cured had gone into withdrawal symptoms while flying home on chartered civilian planes. Mr. Thieu's office issued a etatement saying he has sent to the National Assembly a bill imposing "several new sanctions, specially harsh for people who peddle, import and illegally hoard narcotics." "The death penalty shall be ruled if the offender belongs to at organized group," the state-ment said. "The bill also provides for a special procedure to bring the case to court for urgent trial, as is the case for crimes."

The presidential statement said the legislation indicates "the determination of the Republic of Vietnam to eradicate the nar-cotics evil, which is spreading at such a rate that it is becoming danger for mankind." A U.S. command spokesman issued a statement saying treated drug users will be flown to the United States in military rather than civilian craft to insure complete followup treatment and rehabilitation." Military sources said last month that the U.S. command had sent a special report on the drug traific into the treatment centers to Ambassador Elisworth C. Bunker.

porters are running for House seats and believe their chances would be jeopardized if Gen-

Minh dropped out before that election. Ho Van Minh, for example, is running for re-city tion to his assembly seat from Saigon's Cholon section a seat he would resign if elected vicepresident. If the House election appears reasonably honest, Gen. Minh's political advisers say, if will encourage the general to stay ina not too subtle warning to both Mr. Thien and the Americans that positive efforts to eliminate fraud in one election will make it less likely that the next win a washout. A similar tactic was employed by the anti-war Buddhist state in the 1970 Senate election. Participation by the Buddhists, who boycotted the 1967 elections, was

and efforts were made to keep them satisfied that they were being fairly treated. As it hap pened, their slate won easily. Western observers believe this experience Will lead the Buddhists to advise Gen. Minh to withdraw. And what the An Quang Pagoda advises, it is widely believed, Gen. Minh will do. "Without the An Quang." a Buddhist politician said flatty.

PERFUMES-GLOVES BAGS-TIES-GIFTS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (NYT). strict the presidential candidates of each party to $13.9 million for media spending, based on 10 cents for each of 139 million voters eligible in 1973.

The escalator clause was inserted in committee, at the request of Sen. Marlow Cook, R., Ky., in an effort to insure that the political spending limits would rise in future years as the cost of liv-

But the way the clause is worded, it insures that the overall ceiling for national candidates will go up $2.8 million in a year every year that the cost of living rises 1 percent or more, beginning with the 1971 increase over 1970. The 10-cent-per-voter ceiling consists of a 5 cent limit on spending for radio and television and a 5 cent limit for newspapers. magazines and billboards. The escalator clause provides that these figures will go up the same percentage as the consumer price index did the year before, "round-ed to the next highest cent."

As a result, if the price index for 1971 was only 2 percent higher than the 1970 average—it is now running 4 percent higher—that would be sufficient to produce an automatic increase in each of the two campaign ceilings from 5 to 6 cents per voter.

Arithmetically, a 2 percent in-crease in the price index would increase a 5 cent ceiling to 5.1 cents, but "rounded to the next highest cent" this becomes a 6cent ceiling.

If the consumer price index continued to rise at least 1 percent a year for the next four years, the campaign ceilings would rise I cent each year, to 10 cents per voter for broadcast media and 10 cents for non-broadcast, or a total of 20 cents for each eligible

By 1976, however, the number of eligible voters will have increased also, to at least 150 million by very rough estimates. Thus, the campaign bill would result in a 1976 ceiling of about $30 million for each national

The escalator clause also has the effect of lifting still higher the celling on radio and televi-

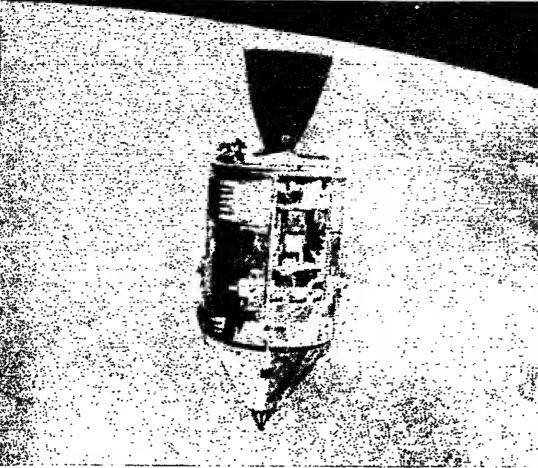

The bill provides that a candidate who uses up his 5-cent-avoter electronic fund can then dip into unspent money in his print media fund up to 20 percent, or I cent more.

The 5-cent formula alone would permit $6.95 million worth of radio and television spending for each presidential candidate. Application of the escalator clause would increase this to $8.4 mil-lion for 1972. A candidate who took the full 20 percent from his print media limit in addition could raise this figure to $10

The campaign spending bill also limits political expenditures by Senate and House candidates, based on the same formula of 10 cents for each eligible voter in the state or district, with no limit lower than $60,000 overall, including $30,000 for radio and television and $30,000 for print media.

A campaign spending bill pending in the House Commerce Committee includes a different escalator clause, based on an index of communications media prices with potential increases not rounded off to the next highest cent.

Astronauts Recording Story As Scientists Begin Studies

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Aug. 10 (UPT).—Apollo-15's as-tronauts recorded the story of their lunar expedition today and geologists reported that one of the rocks brought back from the moon was an intriguing black glass-like chunk one feot long.

"We've never had anything brought back like that before, said Dr. William Phinney, chief geologist at the Manned Spacecraft Center. "It will be very interesting to get a closer look at that once the dust has been brushed off."

Such dark glass is found in volcanic areas on earth where molten rock cooled rapidly after spewing from the earth's crust. The prize of the 171-pound Apollo-15 moon collection, a light colored sample believed to be a piece of the moon's original crust, will not be examined in the lunar receiving laboratory until Friday.

Mars Studies Set as Planet Nears Earth

By Walter Sullivan NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (NYT) .-Tomorrow night, Mars will make its closest approach to earth of this century, except for a slightly closer pass in 1924.

In that year the idea of there being a superior civilization on Mars was still sufficiently plausible for the Army and Navy to accede to demands that they curtail their radio transmissions, in case the Martians tried to call, Furthermore, the Army an-nounced that the great cryptographer, Wilbam F. Friedman, was standing by to decode any messages received.

This time there is no thought of Martian radio communications, but three unmanned spacecraft are on their way to take advantage of the encounter. One is this country's Mariner-9, which is to be thrust into orbit around Mars on Nov. 13. The two others are five-ton Russian craft, due to arrive shortly thereafter.

Their great size has led some to suspect that they are equipped to land a capsule or vehicle on the Martian surface. If the lander carries a television camhis hands to demonstrate era, those on earth may for the where Apollo-15 astronaut first time be able to gaze on if there are any signs of life.

If the orbits of both planets were circular and in the same plane, distance between them at opposition would always be the same. However, the orbits are elliptical and slightly tilted one from the other, so the closest encounters occur when the earth is in that part of its orbit farthest from the sun, and when Mars, at the same time, is at its closest point to the sun.

This year, the earth was farthest from the sun on July 4 and Mars will be closest to the sun on Sept. 8. Opposition occurred early this morning, hut the planets will continue to draw closer until tomorrow night.

The distance will then be 34.9 million miles. The distance in 1924 was 34.63 million miles.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10 (WP).—Deploring what he called Alice in Wonderland" courtroom tactics, a Superior Court indge reluctantly disqualified himself yesterday in the trial of the socalled Soledad brothers—three black prisoners accused of slaying a guard.

The action by Judge Walter J. Carpineti, based on a peremptory challenge from the defense, delayed the start of the trial for at least another two weeks. He made his ruling in a courtroom which had a floor-to-ceiling glass and metal barrier separating the court and defendants from spectators. The three defendants-George

Jackson, 29; John W. Clutchette, 28, and Fleeta Drumgo, 26—gave a black-power sainte as they entered the courtroom, Partisan spectators on the other side applauded. The judge disqualified himself and promptly recessed the case for two weeks, but not before admenishing defense attorneys.

"These procedures take the posture of an 'Alice in Wonderland' story," he said, referring to the fact that the peremptory challenge came after two courts had denied a challenge for cause. "An outside judge decided I was not prejudiced; an appellate court confirmed it. Yet this morning am faced with this problem . . . this calls to mind the criticism by our colleagues in England of the American judicial system. We're so obsessed with procedural matters that we lose sight of substantive matters."

The defense's challenge of the judge was based on his member-ship in the all-white Moose and Elks fraternal clubs.

Just a year ago last Saturday. George Jackson's brother was slain with three others, including a judge, during an abortive attempt to free prisoners and kid-nap bostages at the Marin Coun-film is not shown Written by playwright Rod Serling, "The Doomsday Flight" describes the predicament of an airliner believed carrying a bomb set to detonate when the plane drops below a certain altitude. The bomber telephones the airline and demands a ransom in return for information on where the bomb is planted.

In a letter to the television stations, Mr. Shaffer said each time the film is shown, "the number of anonymously telephoned bomb threats received by the local airline rises significantly."

"Our great concern is that the film may have a highly emotional impact on some unstable individual and stimulate him to imitate the fictional sitnation in the movie." Mr. Shaffer said.

Mr. Shaffer, whose agency has no power to order the film dropped, mailed the letter June 30. So far, only 20 stations have replied that they would not show the film. It was originally aired on network television in 1967. A spokesman for the FAA

Britain, Canada Want Fact-Finding Clause

GENEVA, Aug. 10 (NYT),— Britain and Canada called today for changes in the draft of the treaty proposed by the United States and the Soviet Union for hanning biological weapons.

They urged a revision that would provide for a preliminary investigation of complaints that such weapons had been used in defiance of the proposed treaty commitments .

Under an earlier British proosal, a nation could ask the secretary-general of the United Nations to investigate its complaint of having been the target of hiological warfare. The secretarygeneral would submit his findings to the Security Council.

The Korean editorial which portrayed the United States as a foe that was suffering reverses while planning aggression, was apparently aimed at providing

Asian Communists with an acceptable explanation for the Nixon visit. The Chinese invitation is believed to have cansed some misgivings among Peking's Communist friends in Asia.

Describing Mr. Nixon as "tha boss of U.S. imperialism," Rodong Simmum said that his projected visit to Peking signified the bankruptcy of the "hostile policy of isolation and blockade" that he and other American leaders had pursued against China.

"It reveals to the world people that the U.S. imperialists, who began going downhill with their defeat in the Korean war, are now floundering in a bottomless morass of reverses," the paper said.

The balance of forces in Asia is changing all the more to the disadvantage of U.S. imperialism as time goes by and the hour is drawing nearer when the U.S. imperialist aggressors will be chased out of this region to the

Survey Finds Few Lawyers Unruly in U.S. Courtrooms

By Robert Reinhold

EOSTON, Aug. 10 (NYT). major survey of hundreds of the nation's general trial judges has produced little evidence of any widespread courtroom dis-country. The question of unruly trial lawyers has been raised repeatedly in recent months by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and other leaders of the legal

Mr. Burger has complained that "all too often overzealous advocates seem to think the zeal effectiveness of a lawre depends on how thoroughly he can disrupt the proceedings" and that a decline in civility was menacing justice.

The Bar Association survey was undertaken last year because of the public and legal concerns prompted by the Chicago Seven conspiracy trial, according to Burke Marshall, chairman of association's Special Committee on Courtroom Conduct, who is depoty dean of the Yale

With a $125,000 grant from the Ford Foundation, the com-mittee sent questionnaires to the nation's 4,400 general trial judges asking details of courtroom disruptions.

Six Cases Reported

The statistics are still incomplete, but in preliminary data, the 1,600 judges who responded reported 99 cases of courtroom misconduct, in which they issued 37 contempt citations. Of these, six were against lawyers for incourt behavior

Reports from major cities by New York Times correspondents showed that disruptions, when they occurred, were usually in highly publicized criminal trials of black militants and white radicals, in which lawyers attempted to introduce political issues into the defense. Notable examples were the Chicago Seven case last year and the recent Black Panther trial in New York Justice Burger, traveling in Europe, could not he reached for comment, But court observers suggest that he is concerned that the system of justice, which he is said to view as inherently brittle because of its contentious nature, is losing public respect because of the few widely publicized in-cinents of disorder.

Some activist lawyers believe the Chief Justice is exaggerating the problem in an attempt to curb aggressive young lawyers.

The American judicial system is in a period of unusual stress. Not only have Americans become increasingly litigious in recent years, but the poor, the blacks and other disenfranchised groups have also been demanding their day in court with the help of an aggressive and abrasive new corps of public interest lawyers who see the courts as instruments of social change.

This phenomenon, in the view of many observers, underlies the complaints of conservative judges. Justice Burger has complained about courtroom manners and decorum at least five times in speeches and news interviews since last August. In his May 18 speech before the American Law Institute, he acknowledged that "only a tiny fragment of reckirresponsible lawyers are

He mentioned no names, but it is widely assumed in the legal fraternity that he was alluding chiefly to William M. Kunstler, the defense attorney in the Chicago Seven case. Because of his conduct, Mr. Knnstler was sentenced to four years and 13 days for contempt by Judge Julius J.

'A Witch Hunt'

In an interview at the National Lawyers Guild convention, Mr. Kunstler, who is appealing the sentence, denounced the talk of unruly lawyers as "a witch hunt of leftist lawyers." "There is not an uncivil lawyer.

It's a myth he [Justice Burger] is deliberately creating to control the bar," said Mr. Kunstler. They are atraid of this new breed of lawyer coming out of

Asked if there were any circumstances under which defiance of judges was warranted he said that when a judge denied a defendant his constitutional rights, there were sometimes "moments to say things that might jeopardize your liberty and professional standing."

The man Kunstler's appeal, Prof. Arthur Kinoy, of Rutgers Law School, argued: "A lawyer has the obligation to defend his client to the best of his ability and to stand up to a judge when he be-lieves he is violating the client's

2 Australians Claim Records In Global Flight

DARWIN, Australia, Aug. 10 (Reuters). - Two Australian pilots landed here today after flying around the world in a light aircraft in 125 hours 27 minutes-believed to be a new world record

The two men, Trevor Brougham, 37, and Bob Dickeson, 31, landed in their Beechcraft Baron, a twin-engined aircraft, after their attempt to better the time set by U.S. Air Force Maj. Bob Wallick in 1966-126 hours 16 minutes

Mr. Brougham said on arrival that he was sure they had broken 25 of 32 existing place-to-place records for general aviation aircraft below 6,500 feet, either single or double-propeller.

Judge Rejects Miss Davis's Bid On Grand Jury

SAN RAFAKL Calif., Aug. 10 (UPI) .- Judge Richard I. Arnason today rejected an unprecedented request by lawyers for Angela Davis that the grand jury members who indicted her on murder and kidnap charges be brought into court for questioning. Judge Arnason, who had recessed pretrial proceedings for two days to consider the request denied it with the simple statement that he did not find it "meritorious." He denied another defense mo-

Miss Davis, the black militant. Communist and former philosophy instructor, was indicted by a Marin County grand jury last September and is accused of huying the guns for the Aug. 7, 1970, courthouse shootout in which four persons, including a judge, were killed.

The defense lawyers wanted to question the grand jury members about their racial and economic backgrounds. They contend the selection process was unfair and the grand jury did not represent a cross section of the community.

Texas Gets Rain But Its Neighbors Are Still Parched

HOUSTON, Aug. 10 (NYT).— Heavy rains in most of Texas during the last two weeks have eased if not ended a severe year-long drought that has caused form damage estimated at more than $500 million. Some drought conditions, however, continue in western Oklahoma and parts of New Mexico, the National Weather Service said. A weak upper air trough, an area of unstable air, became stationary over central Texas last week and the rains resulted from this, U.S. weather officials sald. Parts of Texas received from 18 to 20 inches of rain last week. Wayne Palmer, a research meteorologist with the National Weather Service at Silver Spring, Md. said "the situation certainly has eased quite a bit," but said the histories of past droughts in the Southwest indicated that there was only a 30 to 50 percent chance that the drought had been broken despite the above average rainfall of the last two

A study by the National Weather Service shows that the conditions that cause droughts tend to perpetuate themselves, Mr. Palmer said, and it takes several months to make sure that a drought is over.

Civil Rights to Civil War

transformed from one over civil rights to something very close to open civil war. What began as an attempt to secure justice for the Catholic minority in Ulster has, along with elements of religious strife, social revolution and plain hoodlumism on hoth sides, expanded into a conflict to attach Northern Ireland to the South.

It is by no means easy to discern just wbat forces brought about the change. The efforts by the government of Northern Ireland to improve the conditions of the Catholics were nelther imaginative nor bold: the Protestant extremists of the Paisley stamp did much to prevent any sensible redress of Catholic grievances. The presence of British troops, aithough intended to preserve impartial order, awakened old. grim memories. But it would seem that the active agent of the present critical state of affairs was the Irish Republican Army, or that segment of it which, with calculated use of terror, spearheaded the increasing chaos in the streets.

This would tend to confirm the currently popular revolutionary doctrine that it is the terrorist, particularly the urban guerrilla, who can best turn protest into civil war. It can also confirm the fears of society -rational society-that such terror, sparked by however minuscule a group, can radicalize a situation, prevent compromise settlements. and escalate demonstrations into riots, riots into full-scale hostilities.

Much, of course, depends on the amount of tinder available for fanning into flame. Similar radicalization has occurred on American college campuses-but a campus population is essentially transient, and the

The struggla in Northern Ireland has been resident radicalized groups that have grown up in Berkeley, say, or Cambridge, around the universities, are limited. The black nationalists have sparked gbetto riots, and no one can say that their influence is disappearing. But black nationalism has certain practical limits in the United States; it can become effective in a single city, such as Newark, or in portions of other cities. But its goals, unless translated into local black power, lack national definition.

In Uster, the old grievance of Irish nationalists against the partition, and the proximity of the Irish Republic, gives the IRA an apparently practicable goal, while at the same time it makes the Ulster Unionists fearful. No one could seriously accuse an American black nationalist of treason, in the sense that he hopes to bring the United States under the domination of Barbados. But as Northern Ireland moves into a time of "preventive detention"-internment without trial-it is coping at once with acute local grievances and national aspirations. tbe conflicting national aspirations of Ulster's Protestants and Catholics.

It is bardly likely that this could be eased by direct government from London, as has been suggested in Britain, or hy substituting a more rightist government for that of Prime Minister Faulkner, as the fanatical Protestants suggest. Perhaps some kind of national convention to consider the root problems of Ulster might do it-if the extremists on both sides would permit its fair selection. Certainly, something dramatic is needed to bring peace to Northern Ireland, something more than piecemeal reforms, something less than substituting lead for rubber bullets.

A Bold Soviet Move in the Subcontinent

The new Soviet-Indian treaty surely was spun from long-term geopolitical considerations on both sides but, since it has been announced at a moment when India and Pakistan are on the verge of war, the first reading must be in that context. Pakistan, straining to deflect criticism of its repressions in its eastern wing, claims the treaty is intended to secure India's rear against Chinese attack so that Delhl can strike freely at Pakistan. Some Americans will find this explanation credible and certainly India bas its sbare of jingoists who would like to exploit the treaty in just such a way.

It is more than likely, however, that for Delhi the treaty—at least its timing reflects not a design for aggression but a passionate reaction to American support for Pakistan. Only the shock of seeing its traditional friend in Washington stand at Kissinger Peking mission. Last week Presithe side of a regime condemned almost everywhere else could have toppled India out of the ranks of formal non-alignment at this hour.

As for Moscow, our hunch is that the Kremlin has taken advantage of India's distress to consolidate its own position in Delhi: This long-standing Soviet quest, undertaken to check China and perhaps accelerated by the unfolding American dialogue with Peking, first became apparent in Premier Kosygin's mediation at Tashkent of the 1965 Indo-Pakistani war. In pursuing its quest further now, bowever, it appears the Kremlin bas assured itself a measure of control over Indian policy—in the "mntual consultations" article and perhaps in understandings not made public. It would be reckless of any great power to increase its risk in such an explosive situation on any other basis

Whether restraint will prevail is, of course, impossible to say. Pakistan had previously announced - it would try-and execute-

Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, leader of the struggling autonomy-turned-secession movement in the East, and Monday it announced that the trial was about to begin. This is throwing gas on the already-roaring fire of the resistance movement in "Bangla Desh," the name of the would-be Bengali state in East Pakistan. India's all but open political and military support of the Bangla Desb movement is further fanning the flames.

If the Russians-whatever their other purposes-have positioned themselves better to restrain India, then no similar stance has been taken by the United States. Indeed, American support for Pakistan is expanding, surpassing the apparent requirements of geopolitics and inevitably raising the question of what debt to Islamabad was incurred for its services in arranging the dent Nixon went so far as to define the issue as a "problem of hunger," ignoring the root political issue of the Bengali secession movement. Without a word about the continuing shipments of American arms which have helped Pakistan turn some seven million of its own citizens into refugees, Mr. Nixon had the insensitivity to brag of American contributions to their relief.

U Thant is another story. If the United States, to its discredit, finds itself immobilized by political "realities," then why cannot Mr. Thant say the simple truth: The subcontinent is fraught with despair and the danger of a local war, which could well draw in other states, because of the deliberate policies of the Pakistani government. These policies constitute at once a violation of human rights and a threat to international peace. They must be stopped. The issue goes beyond the political calculus of the Soviet move in the subcontinent, as the secretary-general surely understands.

'Apollo's Dividends

Congratulations [to] America, Scott, Irwin and Worden, NASA and Nixon. At a time when so much of what America is attempting and achieving is doubted, criticized and condemned—often faint-heartedly or maliciously-Apollo-15's triumphant vindication of manned lunar exploration is a deserved and welcome tonic.

Those so quick compulsively to prefer the Russian unmanned system are confounded. Apollo is now paying the enormous dividends on which its creators pinned their faith and for which its crews risk their lives. To date, it has brought back four hundredweight of lunar rock, the Russian Lunokhod four ounces. Apollo costs more, but per ounce, its yield is 40 times as cheap.

Dreaming in the Cruel Sea

By C. L. Sulzberger

REYKJAVIK, Iceland. — The Icelanders are admirable, friendly, self-reliant people with a hardiness that has enabled them to survive an arduous climate and poorly endowed soil, Nevertheless, there is striking loveliness to this pastel-shaded island with its glaciers, smoking volcanoes and clear rivers filled with furiously leaping salmou.

Perhaps this loveliness or perhaps their highly educated tradition (this is the oldest functioning democracy and the world's most literate land) or perhaps the endless boreal winter night inspires in Icelanders the habit of dreaming. Who can blame them if they dream of having the best of both worlds?

For Iceland, under the leftwing coalition government elected a few weeks ago, covets the ferred by NATO membership while simultaneously hoping to expel all NATO troops (in this case American) to qualify for the benefits of de facto neutral-

There is nothing reprehensible about such aspirations and there is a valid precedent. When NATO was formed in 1949, this country, which hasn't one single soldier or sailor, was admitted as a charter member and wasn't even asked to contribute real

Pact After Korea .

Only after the Korean war, when the dangers of possible aggression were acutely recognized, was a pact negotiated to establish an alliance, manned by American forces, and to accept U.S. protection of this strategic island, blocking easy access into the Atlantic from the northeast. Iceland correctly asserts that its announced desire to renegotiate the base agreement and oust the U.S. military by 1975 doesn't automatically imply withdrawal from NATO, Time and again the status of 1949-1951 is cited and it is only requested that after patient review of the situation, the U.S. defense force should "leave Iceland step by step."

Of the country's five parties, only one, the small pro-Communits, wants to gult NATO. The dominant group in the government coalition want the Americans to leave but the alliance to stay. Prime Minister Johanuesson says: "When we entered NATO it was with the provision that a military force would not be stationed here in times of peace."

But the world situation no longer favors the kind of noninvolvement to which Icelanders aspire. They have neither the wealth, will nor manpower to build an armed neutral position like Sweden and a substantial number recognize that it is unfeasible to expect protection without doing anything in return

The Soviet Fleet

A process of quiet self-education is now going on among the principal cabinet ministers, who knew nothing about the problem. They are learning that the U.S. forces are barely over 50 percent of the 6.000-plus limit fixed by accord and that they contributed sobstantially to the

They have been briefed on Iceland's strategic importance and were startled to learn that the Soviet fleet based around Murmansk includes about 170 snbmarines-of which one-third are nnclear-backed by aircraft and surface vessels. These could pour into the Atlantic sealanes in time of war, unless carefully surveyed and checked—which is the purpose of Iceland's base.

Moreover, they are discovering that their Norwegian cousins and allies rely heavily on immediate wartime support from Iceland to reinforce northern defensive units which would otherwise be cut off. And the concept of "mothballing" the base-keeping it ready for prompt reoccupation in case of war-is wholly impractical, as the new government is being told. ... Something .must-bc-here .to safeguard it from sudden Soviet seizure in a conflict. Indeed, if Iceland were to insist on extruding U.S. forces, Washington might prefer to see the base demoli ed rather than tempt Moscow to grab it. The quintessential necessity, from NATO's viewpoint, is that Iceland should never become available to hostile forces, even if the U.S. is requested to leave.

The Russians have been playing a cool and skillful game. They do their best to softsoap intellectuals, penetrate unions and dangie the prospects of advantageous loans for industrial plants.

But the Icelanders aren't in the least considering switched alliances or ideologies; they are sturdy democrats. The question is simply one of having the national cake while eating eat, a normal human aspiration. Iceland even got away with this for two years after NATO's birth, the importance of the cruel sea around it no longer makes this dream a practical possi-

August is a Sneaky Month

By James Goldsborough

August was the quietest month in France, but the govern-ment is changing that. It used to be that this was the time you could go away for a month and come back in September knowing you hadn't really missed anything, but it isn't like that any

The French government now takes advantage of August, It saves up its most unpleasant surprises for August, knowing that a Frenchman reading the had news under an umbrella on a sunny Côte d'Azur beach won't be quite so angry, and there is also the chance that he won't be reading the newspaper at all. It is a very clever move, for these same unpopular measures in any other month would bring protests, street marches and maybe even a strike. But it is well known that France closes down Aug. 1 for a month, and so the government has taken to staying in Paris until Aug. 7 or 8 to announce the latest nasti-

Two years ago it was the franc devaluation—never mind that a million or so Frenchmen were out of France on vacation and in a difficult position for several days. I was in Berlin at the time (unfortunately carrying francs) and not only could I not use my francs for several days, but it took three days to make a dollar transfer from Paris.

I reminded a French official of my inconvenience when I returned, but he remarked only that August really was the best time to devalue. He recalled that

PARIS.—It used to be that the 1957 devaluation also had August was the quietest been in August. He suggested that in August it was wise to carry dollars. Except this August. This month, with all the experts predicting a franc revaluation, it was theoretically smarter to carry francs. The August syndrome was so strong this month it seemed certain that the authorities would have to do something for fear of wasting the month.

Sure enough, last week the gov-ernment rolled into action. After long considering the pros and cons of revaluation, it decided against, and instead adopted a series of measures designed to end speculation against the franc and speculation over an August revaluation. With that done, one might have thought it safe to relax and try to enjoy the rest of the month.

Up Go the Prices

But no, there has been more unpleasantness. Starting today (Wednesday), cigarettes with "blond" tobacco will go up almost a nickel per pack, it has now been announced. And in what the unions have called the rudest blow of all, it was announced this week that Paris hus and Metro tickets will go up 14 percent starting Aog. 20. Transport Minister Jean Chamant also revealed that an increase in the price of traffic fines would be announced shortly.

To be sure, the various unions have protested these increases, but with most of their members away on the beach, there is little they can do. The severest criticism came from the independent leftist Democratic Labor Confederation (CFDT), which accused the government of a low blow and remarked that the vacationing workers would not suffer the price increases in silence when they returned.

Le Monde called it "de bonne guerre" to push through unpopular measures when most Frenchmen are more concerned with weather forecasts than subway

The August syndrome is by no means limited to economic affairs. Public opinion was aroused here last June and July when the final reprieves ran out for old glass and iron pavilions of les Halles, and several demonstrations were held by protesters who wanted to save the structures. The government, after ordering the police in to break the demonstrations, postponed the destruction.

Last week the Monday after the August exodus took most of the wrecking crews were back, still under the watchful eye of the riot police, wary of that mi-nority of Frenchmen who take their vacation in July. It might very well be de bonne guerre, but the government's guns of August seem to have misfired this time. Despite the absence of people, the protest has been loud in the press and among opposition leaders, who seem to be stirred up as much over the new measures as over what they interpret as a government action to ruin their vaca-

Lewis vs. Johnson

One has difficulty in knowing what language to use to characterize Tony Lewis's column (IHT, Aug. 3, 1971) entitled "The Risk of Cynicism." In view of Mr. Lewis's pronounced Anglophilia, one might use the word "cheek." Being in France I tend toward "toupet," but maybe in Mr. Lewis's American jargon we can refer to his column as just plain "citutepah."

Your space limitations would not permit me to deal exhaustively with Mr. Lewis's venomous opinions of Lyndon B. Johnson, but space should permit exploration of at least one egregious error of fact and, in so doing, one has difficulty in evaluating Mr. Lewis's own cynioism as demonstrated by his cynical disregard of facts.

Mr. Lewis says, concerning President Johnson's War on Poverty: "It was corruptingly disappointing for the poor and their supporters to find that there was no plan of battle."

Either Mr. Lewis does not bother to read the record or Mr. Lewis lacks powers of memory. May I remind him of President Johnson's special message to Congress of March 16, 1964, entitled "Proposing a Nationwide War on the Sources of Poverty. which was accompanied by a draft hill which became the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 when signed by the President on August 30, 1964. Reference to that message and to the legislation give the lie to Mr. Lewis's assertion, as do the subsequent amendments to the act.

Moreover, if Mr. Lewis will refer to the various budget messages for fiscal years 765 through 69, he will find that each year President Johnson not only had a battle plan but had a defined program which could be translated into appropriations. Aithough the Congress regularly, with the exception of 1966, appropriated less money than the President requested, there was committed during the five fiscal years in question 7.6 billion dollars to action programs provided for m the President's successful "plan of battle."

The figures showing the exodus from poverty during President Johnson's administration are clear and eloquent, and we note that in 1959, there were 38 million poor; in 1964, there were 34 million and in 1967, 25,9 million. For the same periods, the drop in the percentage of white poor is demonstrated by the fact that the figures are 18 percent for 1959, 14 percent for 1964 and 10 percent for 1967. For nonwhites, the figures are equally dramatic. For 1959, 55 percent of all nonwhites were poor; in 1964, 47 percent of all nonwhites were poor, and in 1967, 35 percent of all nonwhites were poor, this in the face of an increase in popula-

Mr. Lewis need only inquire of the Office of Economic Opportunity to learn that President Johnson left. in its files, at the time he left office, a battle plan for the next steps in the War on-Poverty. This plan consisted of four coordinated and interrelated programs, including an Income Maintenance Program, a Community Services Program, a Private Sector Employment Program, and a Public Employment Program, costed at approximately $9 to $15 billion each year over and above the costs of then existing programs. Even Mr. Lewis should be willing to admit that the reductions in rates of escape from poverty since January 20. 1969, and the disregard of the four major programs developed by the Johnson administration cannot be blamed on President Johnson.

There is, of course, a very detailed and complete literature on the subject of the President's plan of battle and accomplishments in the War on Poverty. and if Mr. Lewis is unable to obtain it through Tha New York Times' usual sources, legal and otherwise, I will be pleased to assist him. Leary

Timothy Leary, freed for reasons of health from a Swiss jail was interviewed at Radio Suisse-Romance.

CE T

Each day in prison was like death to him, he said. He can't live without liberty.

Did he care when he brought that kind of death; or dependence on drugs (and maybe real death after some years, to roung students he was in charge of? He considered these young peo-ple were his own people he could impress with his personal ideas, people he could destroy, He never accepted any restraints on himself nor did he seem concerned by the conseonences of his acts on young people. Now all he wants is peace, he says, confident that he cannot deserve less.

Problems

Pred Karlin likes to soive problems. And this is why he is that rarity among Hollywood composers, a man who really likes to write for films. He even likes to write music for radio and TV commercials. Every film and every commercial is a problem, or a complex of problems, and most composers accept them as a more or less inevitable nuisance. Karlin welcomes them as a challenge.

How well, and how confidently

But it's not just the problems that have drawn him into film scoring. Even more attractive is their variety. Since graduating from Amherst some 15 years ago, he has been involved in just about every category of music from jazz to classical, including the scoring of grandioso finales for the Radio City Music Hall. Cardin, Courrèges Hint They May Drop Couture Courrèges hinted today that they might like to follow Yves Saint Laurent's lead in dropping hautecouture collections.

And Saint Laurent received verbal backing from Robert Ricci, former head of the Chambre Syndicale de la Couture, the organization that links the big high-fashion houses.

"Yves Saint Laurent is right," Mr. Ricci said. "One day readyto-wear will overtake haute couture in our houses. Saint Laurent's go-it-alone decision will be very embarrassing for the rest of the designers. We were showing as a group and we should have acted as a group."

Courrèges said, "Since Chanel's death, fraditional haute couture has disappeared. I'm offering my prototypes (made-to-order) and ready-to-wear at the same time." Pierre Cardin, who has re-portedly been looking for a way to get out of the hante-couture iness for a long time, com-

Oddly enough, the same audience that was so hard on "Carmen" on Sunday was very generous to "Delta T Equals Infinity," a trivial duet to sound (machine-gun noises and Orthodox choruses) by Georges Zamfir, with choreography by Norbert Schmucki. Jacqueline Rayet and Michael Denard are a most attractive couple, but the choreographic invention of this pas de deux gave them precious little chance to show either the extent

It remained for Plisetskaya to perform that old chestnut, the Saint-Saëns/Fokine "The Dying Swan," to remind the youthful andlence what the art of dance is all about. to return to his job at the Fort Hamilton High School in Brooklyn (he still teaches evening adult courses at the State University Urban Center) and went into the plant-sitting business. He announced his service by leaving flyers around plant stores, and soon the Stones had 40 plant boarders in their Brook-Ivn apartment. The greenery, plus two young children, was a bit too much. So Mr. Stone rented a greenhouse and is ready to board anything from a tiny cactus to a palm tree.

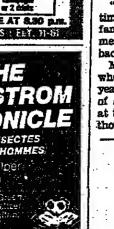

The other day, with 60 charges resting comfortably on the greenhouse shelves, Mr. Stone was bracing himself to pick up 100 in a fourth-floor walk-up.

Weekly boarding charges are 25 cents to $1.75 a plant, depending on size. Monthly rates are 85 cents to $6. Minimum boarding time is one week. For a $5 fee, Mr. Stone will pick up the plant. Giving up his school job for the greenhouse is a gamble, he admitted, but like many city

Italian Slowdown Seen Worsening

ROME, Aug. 10 (AP-DJ) .- The Italian economy is in the midst of its lnngest production slowdown since World War II, the Italian government's Institute for the Study of the Economic Situation (ISCO) reports.

It said stagnation has spread to all fields of industry this year, and working below capacity has become "a general fact."

Meanwhile the bureau of statistics said man-hours lost due to strikes totaled 11.3 million in May, up from 8.6 million April but down sharply from 23.8 million a year earlier. For the January-May period, the loss totaled 45.4 million manbours, down from 84.8 million a year earlier.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (WP) many decided to temporarily -Retail sales in June increased slightly more than I percent to $33.11 billion, after seasonal adjustment, following a decline in May, the Commerce Department reported vesterday.

Without adjustment for price changes, June sales were 8 percent higher than June sales a year ago. The increase is more than halved when the inflation index—which in June was 4.5 percent above a year before—is taken into account.

The Commerce Department said seasonally-adjusted durable goods sales in June were 2 percent above May and 10 percent above June a year ago. Nondurable sales were up 1 percent from May and 8 percent from June a year ago,

In 'another development, the Federal Reserve Board's Open Market Committee decided on May 11 to slow down the growth of the money supply "over the months ahead." The meeting came two days after West Oer-

Mid-Day Rally Fails, Big Board Prices Drop NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (NYT).-

By William D. Smith

Prices drifted lower on the New York Stock Exchange today despite a half-hearted attempt at a rally around noon. Trading continued listless although volume picked up a little to 8.46 million shares, compared with 8.11 million shares yesterday. Some of the volume increase came from institutional turnover. Large block dealings were made in at least half a dozen of the most active issues. The 840 level on the Dow Jones Industrial average, considered by some technical analysts to be the crucial support level, was pierced at the opening, regained during most of the day, only to be punctured again at the close when the average hit 839.59, off 3.08 on the session.

Summer's Drift Technical analysts, however, noted that the support level was pierced in a very slow market without any selling crescendo. Many analysts appsrently believe that the market may be content to drift for the rest of the summer. One said, "I look upon the present situation as evidence of lack of confidence." He said he didn't expect the market to do much unless the economy "showed a tangible rebound, which will take time" or unless President Nixon took action on the "two most glaring economic problem—the worth of the dollar and wage-price guldelines."

Another analyst described the market as "one that needs a nudge. We definitely need good news to get it going again." Several brokerage houses said that bargains were available at present price levels, but the market's action made it obvious that most big and little traders thought that better deals were yet to come.

The blggest gainer of the day was Bausch & Lomb, which climbed 5 1.8 to 123 7/8. The

NYSE Finds Counterfeit Certificates

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (NYT),-The New York Stock Exchange has reported the appearance of counterfeit certificates for various issues of American Telephone & Telegraph, General Electric Co.. Pan American World Airways, and Chrysler Corp.

Spokesmen for AT&T, GE and Psn Am confirmed that the counterfeit documents had been produced by offset printing. They were generally of poor quality "that would be recognized by any but a small bank," one spokesman added.

AT&T said that 10 of its 30year 7 percent debentures, due Feb. 15, 2001 and valued et $10,000 each, had been received. GE said that "in excess of 500,000" counterfeit 7 1/2 percent debentures due 1966 had turned up at the Swiss Bank Corp. office here.

Pan Am said that 10 of its 11 1/2 percent guaranteed loan certificates due Dec. 16, 1986, had also been reported. Chrysler said underwriters were checking its certificates. In each case the FBI and Leonard Newman, assistant district attorney in the New York County frauds division, have been notified along with the stock registrars.

Westinghouse Electric and Tenneco say they plan to build jointly platform-mounted offshore nuclear power plants. Officials of the firms said the companies will build the plants on a production-line basis at a joint facility. They expect to start construction of a $200 million manufacturing facility in mid-1972. It will have the capacity to build four 1,200,000-kilowatt nuclear plants a year and is expected to employ 8,000 workers. Projected date of completion for the first power plant is 1879.

Inco. France Plan Nickel Talks

International Nickel Co. of Canada and the French authorities will start a new round of talks in September aimed at setting up a second consortium to exploit New Caledonian nickel ore deposits, informed sources say. The original consortium of Inco, French industry and the French state had proved by last June to be unworkable. The French government is now prepared to reconsider the project in view of Inco's determination to maintain its interests in the French overseas territory, the sources said. They expect the Pechiney-Ugine Kuhlmann group will play an important role in the negotiations, probably becoming the French industrial partner in any new consortium.

German Chemical Net Seen Falling

Farbwerke Hoechst says profits in the West German chemical industry will decline further this year. The industry's turnover in the first balf this year rose by about 7 percent to around 26 billion deutsche marks, while for the whole of German industry turnover rose by 8 percent to about 275 billion DM over the same 1970 period. Hoechst reported. The average per industrial product rose by 4.9 percent in the first six months, but in the chemical industry the rise was only 2.2 percent, a rise which did not reflect the improvement the industry's productivity.

CANCERQUEEN

By Tommaso Landolfi. Translated from the Italian by Ray. mond Rosenthal. Dial. 276 pp. $7.95.

Reviewed by Thomas Lask

THOSE who think of Italian fiction as a single exercise in realism from Verga to Moravia, with poetic and elegiac inter-Indes by Dino Buzzati and Giorgio Bassanl, will find something new, something un-Italian in the writings of Tommaso Landolfi. The characteristics of the stories gathered in "Cancerqueen" are evident enough, but far from easy to convey. He is a sharply observant writer, for example, and his descriptions of a dolce vita party, of a dog worrying a rodent, of a man contemplating the killing of his woman companion, have a geometric exactness and clarity that no realism will surpass. Nevertheless, these details are put to other uses. It's what he does with them that distinguishes his fiction. And it is here that any easy characterization of his work falters. The forms of his writing suggest that he is a man who should he read on more than one level to use a handy phrase that is happily losing its popularity. And with a little ingenuity it is not hard to do so. "Stefano's Two Sons" says as much about the relations of the artist to society. to his family, as does Thomas Mann's 'Tonio Kröger.' One of Stefano's sons is the child of his loins, the other the child of his imagination. To which does he owe a greater allegiance? Stefano tries to avoid making a choice by being fair to each. But the result is that both turn out to be monsters-maiformed, sterile, repulsive. In another story, The Sword," Renato, the hero, a relict of an aristocratic line, comes upon a miraculous sword among the dusty heirlooms in his possession -a sword so sharp, so quick that it cleaves in twain anything ittouches Renato proves its efficacy by testing it on all the old objects around him. He wants fame and fortune and the sword. he is sure will now bring them to him. But of what use is such a razor-edged weapon today? In the end he turns it on the innocent and defenseless. It does not require a deep thinker to draw a dozen morals from such a tale.

The long title story also leaves itself open to weighty interpretations. The narrator is in a space ship going around the earth, and trailing the ship outside in spaceis the body of a man he has murdered. How did he come into such a predicament? Earlier he had been visited by the murdered man, who had escaped from an asylum, but who that he was not mad. On the contrary, he had constructed a space ship that could take both of them on a voyage to the moon. After surmounting a number of earthly hazards, among them eluding the keepers looking for their sometime patient, the two set off for the moon. But the escapee, as it turns out, is mad (Is the author saying that one can construct a space ship and be mad at the same time?) and has to be disposed of: In the course of their differ ences, the machinery is tamped deflected from its route to circle the earth forever. This course for rection, as it might be called brings some new perspectives to the survivor. The earth begins t appear less and less vile and the activities and strivings of man kind take on a dignity. Don't as sume that the anthor agrees with the judgments of his larger mariner He may be communities mariner. He may be come sardonically on man's notions of his own heroism. But although Landolf's spice can be read in this syntian fashion I agree with Rayming Rosenthal, whese translations in the way are exemplary, that it would be wrong to do so. The point in each of his stories some times more than one is to be of found in the story. It does not so have to relate to what is outside of of itself. In "Misdeal," 2 game; involving a form of strip poter pride and humility are put on exhibition in rather bizarre so roundings. In "Venetian Dislogue," a Pirandello-like converse tion anatomizes the gambles of impulse, A habitue of a gambine! house is nifered a sackful of gold [27] if he leaves the establishment for the day. He refuses and in the ensuing talk the question of whether the gambler's real design is to win or lose is turned around and around, each amusing facet of the question debated with wit No. Landolfi's stories do no require metaphysical probin but a recognition of his fictional gifts: an ability to render scene and character, animal or man, or with an etcher's exactness; an acute awareness of the psychological vagaries of man and considerable narrative strength. The title story in a previous volume of "Gogol's Wife" (New Directions, the weirdest happenings are of sented as a series of natural events. Tooking in Canter a queen, a lovely story of separa of tion and reconciliation, is solved with shrewd psychological touches. Took way a man looks at a heart house of the way a man looks at a heart house of the way a more looking at her. Mute the first story in the current volume may not be in actuality the var a murderer thinks, but it is enough mously persuesive. In an attempt to place him in Pat a familiar niche, critics have compared Landolfi to Isak Diresen, Borges, Kafka, They'll all do the li "The Sword" is a Dinesen story or and from start to finish. And there are are parallels to Borges through time oot. But essentially Landolfi is the himself, astringent, intellectual plan sometimes brittle, a writer noting everyone will like, but one every serious reader of fiction should notice.

By Alan Truscott

Most players, even the greatest, played a second heart. South double the opponents into game now and then. Those who never do so are overcautious, and frequently allow toeir opponents to go down two or more tricks un-

Some tournament players go to the opposite extreme and become trigger-happy. On the diagramed deal from a private match West broke all rules that govern borderline penalty doubles at the partscore level:

Don't double unless you are sure your side has most of tha high-card strength. Don't double if doubling may help the declarer make the winning play in trumps. Don't double with length in your partner's suit, Don't double an expert who can be expected to get the most out of the play. North opened one no-trump with a minimum hand that some would consider sub-minimum, and East used a convention. Two clubs was "Astro," promising length in hearts and one of the minor suits. On the next round, West unwisely seized the chance to double three spades after East had raised hearts. At this vulnerability, it was East, not South, who was likely to be overbldding. West held too many hearts and inadequate spades for the double. West also failed to consider that South was one of the world's great players, Jean Besse of Switzerland.

West led a low heart and when Fast won with the jack he shifted to a club. The queen, king and ace were played, and South ied a diamond to his queen. It was good play to develop diamonds before playing trump: South was willing to concede one diamond ruff, and it was most unlikely that the defender could maneuver two ruffs.

ruffed with the apade eight and ran the spade nine, confident that West would not have doubled without both missing trump honors. When this held, he was able to lead the spade king and take the marked finesse against the queen, making an overtrick. Without any clues from the opponents' bidding. South might well have failed. :NORTH (D)

Another Canadian, Nancy Rohrtson, 21, stemmed the United States' gold flow earlier in the day in the women's 10-meter platform diving. The United States settled for silver with Debby Lipman. Air Force Capt. Micki King, a favorite in the competition, wound up fourth.

The electrical power failure lasted 25 minntes, just long enough for Robert Clarke and Robb Orr to contrive several more cheers for the U.S. team.

Clarke and Orr, who swam in the 200-meter butterfly Sunday night, have become unofficial cheerleaders for the spirited U.S. squad, which is attempting to prove that No. 2s do try harder. Many of the United States' top swimming names—including John Kinsella, Debbie Meyer and Mark Spitz-passed up the Pan-Am meet to concentrate on peaking for the National Outdoor championships later this month in Houston, where a trip to East Germany and the Soviet Union awaits top finishers.

"We've been taking a lot of ribbing about our second-string status;" said Clarke, after the lights went out for a second time for ten more minutes. "The Canadians are real anxious to get after us because they think we're weak. So we're all working that much harder. The spirit has been great."

The scrambling quarterback who was to have led the Giants against the Houston Oilers yesterday in the Astrodome in their exhibition opener, insisted he still wanted to play for the team "if things work out." He emphasized he didn't wish to rick injury in preseason competition while still unsigned.

'I can't play football without contract," Tarkenton said last night. "Nothing else is involved except the contract. I cannot accept the offer they made me."

Tarkenton disputed a statement made at a Houston press conference earlier yesterday by club owner Wellington T. Mara, who interpreted the quarterback's sudden exit as retirement. Mara said tha main problem was a "high, six-figure loan" that Tarkenton requested for his various enterprises. Mara said bis legal advisers said "there was no way we could do it." Mara called the loan "the real stumbling block." Tarkenton, 31, reportedly earned $100,000 in 1970 when he led the Giants to a 9-5 season, their

Sports Movie Pitfall: Smaller Than Life By Robert Lipsyte

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (NYT) .--Evel Knievel's doctor looks at the motorcycle stunt man and says, "Every man has to make his mark. Yours'll be on the north wall." Evel, who does not have much of a sense of humor, is not amused. Eval describes himself as the 'last gladiator in the new Rome." a man whose role is to lift humanity from the humdrum by jumping 20 cars withnut getting "splattered." His credo, once shouted to his bride-to-be as they cycled down the steep steps of her college residence, is:

"It doesn't matter if you get kill-

Robert (Evel) Knievel really exists, a daredevil who says some day he will jump the Grand Canyon, and probably go right down in history. But the movie, "Evel Knievel," starring George Hamilton, somehow makes the interesting cyclist somewhat smaller than life, a fairly common disaster in movies about sports. There are three other current sports movies around New York, and two should go right down in history.

The cars finally start (When they finally got around to making this movie, probably because of a good one called "Grand Prix," the 24-Hours of Le Mans race had scrapped, for safety, its famous running start), there is a great deal of obligatory snarling and whining in Porsche and Ferrari dialects. but no real sense of the incredible time, dedication, money and ex-machine. When the dialogue finally starts. McQueen tells the widow. "Racing is life. Before and after is just walting." Since McQueen doesn't win or get splattered or even go to bed with the widow during pit stops, one can safely say that ABC's Wide World of Sport did it all better, and live. 'Drive, He said'

While "Le Mans" uses a slight story with undeveloped characters as rubber bands for a sportslogue, a fake and pretentious movie called "Drive, He Said" tries to use the instant symbols of college basketball to avoid really dealing with its themes of passion and commitment. Oddly enough, or maybe not, the high points of the movie are discipline. While the sex scenes

he and an Italian driver crashed aren't much, "Drive, He Said"

does offer something new for most sports fans-the first truly explicit dressing room and shower scenes.

Which brings us to "On Any Sunday," a clearly-envisioned, simply-told, beautifully-made documentary about motorcycle racing. The film-maker, Bruce Brown, also narrates, in that California hip-corn that becomes infectious when the excitement and delight are genuine. And when Brown explains, and then shows, for the second or third time, how the best way to avoid a bad spill at 100 miles an hour is simply to lay down the machine on your leg, it is impossi-

CHARLES EAMES

By Saul Pett

NEW YORK (AP).—A short movie about tops Just tops, Spinning green tops, hluc tops, red tops, solid and multicolored tops. And slowly, without words, a lesson in centrifugal force . .

Chairs of simple lines and ohvious function, molded for the human body, now in use around the world . . . A puppet show about Sherlock Holmes, splashed with color and wit and an incidental lesson in logic . . . A house to live in, a building to work in, a toy to grow on . . .

This is the world of Charles Eames, a Renaissance man in an age of singletrack minds, a man of recognized multiple talents-furniture designer, architect, filmmaker, inventor, innovator in the use of materials and graphic design, craftsman, toymaker, photographer (movies and stills). teacher, student and interpreter of mathematics and science.

With all that, he is scarcely known to the general public, except, perhaps, for his chairs, in which he pioneered the use of molded plywood and which now appear in homes, offices, airports across the earth, A resident of Santa Monica, Calif., Eames was in New York for an IBM exhibit in which he "sculpted," with real machines and artifacts, the history of the computer into a three-dimensional wall 48 feet long. He also came East to occupy the Charles Eliot Norton chair of poetry (broadly defined) at Harvard.

Charles Eames is 63, tall, handsome and youthful. He wears his hair short and nudged forward and casual string bow ties. He is rarely casual. He is shy and gentle but impatient with over-simplification. He generally diadains large statements and generalizations, preferring to chip away at truth one corner at a time. He is precise but not always immediately One remembers T. S. Eliot's observation: "Good poetry can communicate before it is understood."

He explains the variety of his interests by the fact that It is the "structure" of each that attracts him.

With his wife, Ray, and other collaborators, Eames reached light years outside himself to make a little gem of a movie called "Powers of Ten." The idea came to him before be thought of an audience for it. The movie has since been shown to a meeting of physicists and a few other small groups. Eames says he is not generally tempted to try to reach mass andiences with his films because that would require "too much work and time."

"Powers of Ten" runs all of 7 minutes 53 seconds. . It begins with a man lying on a Miami beach. The camera moves in close to a spot on his forearm and then, in distance multiples of ten, zooms out showing the whole arm, the whole man, the man on the heach, the Florida peninsula, half the United States, the blue globe of the earth as seen by astronauts, all the way out into space, into the galaxies, ten carried to the 24th power. It moves back in to the spot on the man's forearm and then inside until ultimately, in another dimension, it reaches one tiny earbon atom, 10-". It is a simple yet staggering per-spective of distance and numbers, scientifically precise yet at the peak of poetic imagination.

An architect who used to work with Eero Saarinen and other giants in the field, Eames no longer does buildings himself Where buildings are involved, he usually works on the basic concept of the whole and the details of the inside. The details of the exterior design usually are turned over to other architects.

Why? "I guess I'm a cop-out. Designing a whole building is just too demanding of attention to keep the basic concept from disintegrating. Builders, prices, materials, so many things work toward lousing It up."

The son of a photographer-painter, who died when he was 10, Charles Eames worked as a grocery delivery boy, folder of envelopes, steel mill laborer and apprentice draftsman until he won an architecture scholarship to Washington University. There, be flunked out after two years, partly because of an indifference to teachers who disapproved of one of his idols, Frank Lloyd

Nonetheless, he obtained commissions to do houses and buildings, went to Europe, studied the work of such architects as Walter Gropius ("form follows function") and Mies Van Der Rohe ("less is more") and returned to St. Louis only to find no work for a young architect in the Depression. He went to Mexico to study sculpture and nearly starved. He returned to the States as a practicing architect and then as head of the experimental design department in an important incubator of designers, the Cranbrook Academy of Art in Michigan. There, he and Eero Saarinen won first prize in an international competition for a molded plywood chair.

It was a prize rich in prestige and bereft of profit. The chair was too costly to produce until several years later Eames and his wife perfected an inexpensive molding process in their small Los Angeles apartment. There, they took turns on a stationary hicycle, which activated a pump which produced the compressed air neces sary to bend the plywood. Earnes had been supporting them as a set designer for MGM. When that ended, he and his wife were about to audition a clown act for the circus when the chair was selected for mass production. The royalties that followed gave Earnes the economic basis for his assorted activities since.

Considering the whole spectrum of the quality of life today—the congestion, the pollution, the tastelessness, the confusion and impersonalness of huge numbers-he retains a basic optimism.

"Our problems," he says "do not stem from a degeneration of human beings but from changes for which people were not We are at least aware of the prepared.

"The scary fact is that many of dreams have come true. We wanted a more efficient technology and we got pesticides in the soil. We wanted cars and television sets and appliances and each of us thought he was the only one wanting that. Our dreams have come true at the expense of Lake Michigan. That doesn't mean that the dreams were all wrong. It means that there was an error somewhere in the wish and we have to
